Photographer

Amanda Gerton is a 27-year-old photographer from Lexington, KY and owner of Gerton Photography.

She and her husband Greg have two children together.

Her love for photography began while taking a yearbook class at Bryan Station High School where she was photo editor. After graduating from high school in 1996, she attended Eastern Kentucky University on her way to a degree in nursing, but soon realized that photography was her passion. She decided to pursue her own photography business.

Amanda has been doing wedding and photojournalistic photography since 1995. She currently runs Gerton Photography from her home in Lexington.

She contributes to the Key Newsjournal Publication and travels all over Kentucky and surrounding states doing wedding photography, special events, and on location portraits. She is a member of the Professional Photographers Association and Kentucky Professional Photographers Association.
